Sea View Inn on historic Pawleys Island – A Barefoot Paradise since 1937

Winter/Spring 2010 Edition

Island Time Retreat March 21 - 23

Spend time with "local treasure" Lee Brockington as your history and southern culture instructor. Laugh at stories from the porch and study island history. Field trips include beach ecology and creek conversation. Bring your pajamas for fireside chats.

Plantation Tours March 25 - 28

Join us for our opening weekend as we provide the perfect place to stay and enjoy the Plantation Tour festivities. Houses will be open from 9:30 am until 5:00 pm on Friday and Saturday. We will prepare you for the day with a hearty Sea View Inn breakfast and a bag lunch for your day trip.

Kayak and Nature Event April 4 - 9

Join other nature lovers for a guided tour of some of the areas most beautiful lowcountry settings. Sandy Island, Hobcaw Barony, Brookgreen Gardens, Pawleys Creek, Francis Marion National Forest, and more. Ian Sanchez, regional naturalist and filmmaker, will lead the tours while imparting local history and unique insights. (Package rate available)

"The Screen Door" Spa Escape – April 16 - 23

Have you ever had a facial while enjoying the sounds of rolling waves? How about a deep tissue massage accompanied by a soothing ocean breeze? Indulge yourself in a long overdue pedicure, facial, or massage and spend some time with your best friends. And in your spare time, enjoy a virtually private beach, 3 meals each day, and a restored mind and body.

Artist Week with Betty Brown – April 23 - 30

The annual Pawleys Island workshop continues with its 32nd year, combining great painting locations with gorgeous spring weather. Betty became instructor for Artists' Week 2002, turning another page in the history of art at Sea View Inn. You can work on your own, or avail yourself of her instruction that focuses on the principles of design, color, and "learning to see." (Package rate - weekly stay preferred)

Pluff Mud, You Gotta Love It...

Pawleys regulars are familiar with pluff mud. You know, that dark mud just below the marsh water's surface. But what is it? Over time, several thousand years' worth of dead animals, marsh plants and other vegetable matter have washed into the tidal swamps and marshes surrounding the Lowcountry. Everything that has washed in has never completely washed out and it is this build up of sediment that creates the foundation for marsh mud, also known as pluff mud. When the decay of the bottom matter is revealed at low tide, the muck releases hydrogen sulfide, a powerfully strong smelling gas. It is pungent and unmistakably Lowcountry.

Many natives consider it a friendly smell that reminds them of home the instant they smell it, but visitors and newcomers are often heard describing it as an odor similar to rotten eggs. Those that love Pawleys have developed a fondness for that smell, because its presence means they are in their favorite place in the world. Pawley Island!

"It gets in your soul"

- Coffee on the ocean porch while watching the sun rise over the ocean
- Driving over the causeway and anticipating your time at the beach
- Enjoying a delicious meal knowing the next one is only a few hours away
- Frances breaking out in song in the dinging room
